THE LUTHERAN HOSPITAL.

The Ft. Wayne Lutheran Hospital is ideally located in a beautiful grove in the southern part of the city. It has a capacity for 125 patients.

It is incorporated under the laws of the State of Indiana and was organized in 1902 and very small in the beginning, but has steadily grown to its present size and equipment. It has a well equipped operating suite and obstetrical department, one entire floor is devoted entirely to obstetrical cases.

In connection with the Hospital is a Training School for Nurses, the Board of this Hospital has always maintained this school at the high point of efficiency which it now holds. From a small beginning, the number of pupils has steadily increased. The scientific program of the school encompasses all disciplines, to which is added a wealth of material for demonstration and practice. In all branches the number of hours meets every requirement, and each pupil receives the careful, individual attention which she may need. Free opportunity is given for recreation and play, and every effort is made to keep the nurse in good health, mentally and physically, and always under proper supervision.

The Hospital and Home is reached by the South Wayne street car line and is one and a half mile from the center of the city on Fairfield Avenue, one of the most beautiful and principal residence streets in the city.

DEPARTMENT OF DIETETICS.

The feeding of the sick is taking an ever larger place in modern therapeutics. Drugs are more and more being displaced by foods. A scientific study of the needs of the body, of foods and their combinations, is necessary for one who would provide a well balanced diet for the well, but it is indispensable to the nurse who expects to be able to follow the direction of the modern physician.

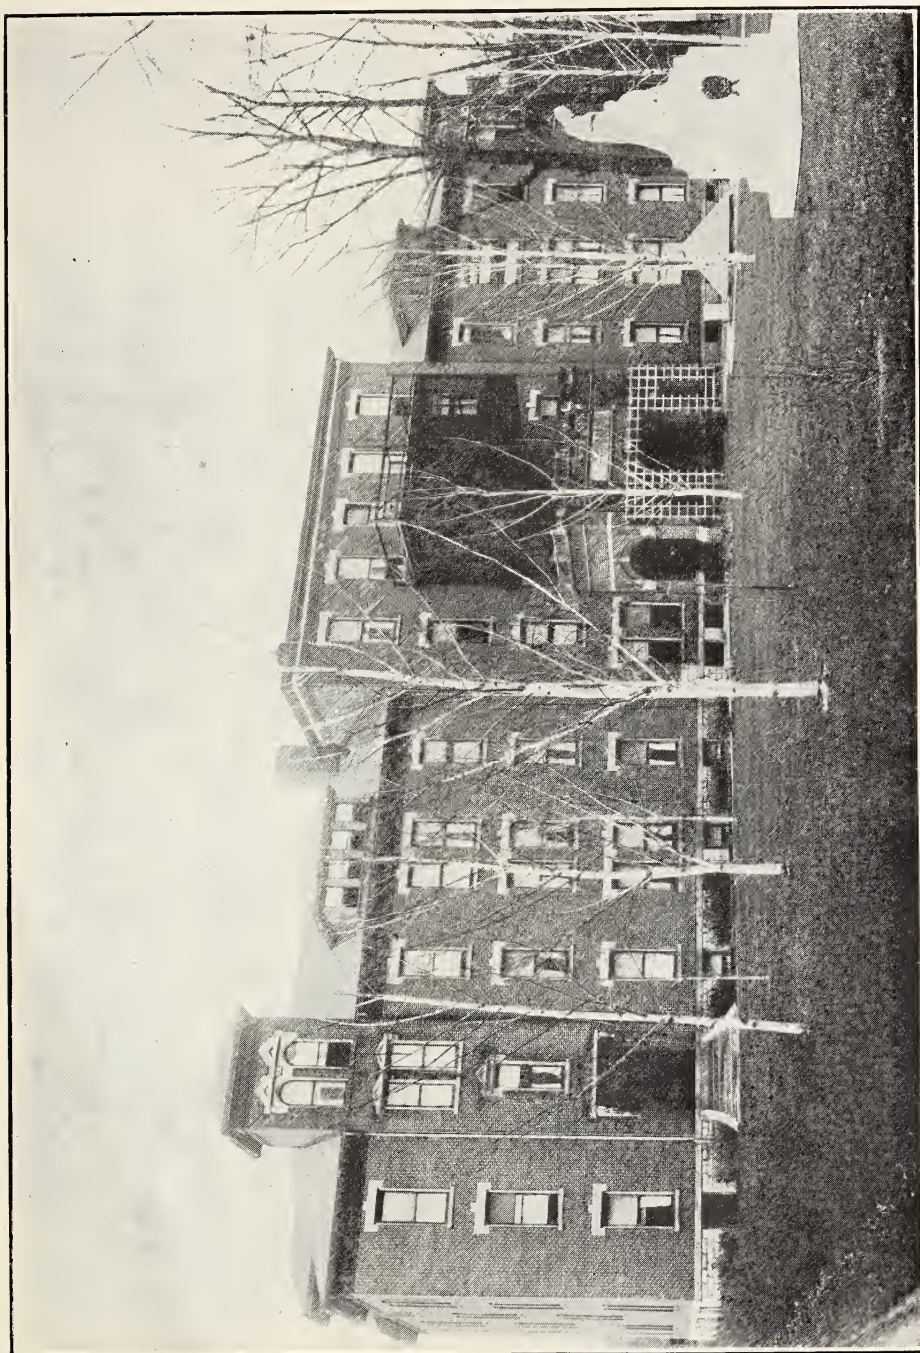

A thorough course in theoretical dietetics, which includes the chemistry of food, the method of computing its caloric value and the diet in health and disease, is given; this, however, is supplemented by a term in practical cooking given under supervision.

The pupils have demonstrated to them the necessity of the avoidance of waste. The nurse who has not been thoroughly drilled in the principles and practices of economical selection and preparation of the food for the sick, will not be able to measure up to some of the greatest opportunities for usefulness that will offer themselves in her work. She should be able to go into the homes of the poor and demonstrate what Bishop Hall so aptly said: "It is no small commendation to manage a little well. He is a good waggoner that can turn in a little room."

THE NURSES' HOME.

The Nurses' Home is located just north of the Hospital among large forest trees. A large, commodious, modern building. It has accommodations for 78 nurses. It is equipped with a nurses' parlor, music room, and library. In the basement is a well equipped class room and demonstration room for the nurses, where the theoretical and practical instruction in all branches are given by capable and efficient instructors. The Home is under the direct supervision of the Principal and Assistant Principal of Nurses.

The Hospital Ladies' Aid Society and Nurses' Alumnae Association hold their regular meetings in the Home.

NURSING SCHOOL INFORMATION.

The Hospital Board has thoroughly equipped the school proper. In their desire to maintain this school at its present high standard, neither the Board nor the Teaching Staff will spare time, energy, or money. The prized standard is reflected in the high class of its graduates, a number of whom hold positions of trust and honor. The school is an accredited school, registered with the Indiana State Board. It is one of the largest and best known schools in the State of Indiana. The graduates of the school are eligible for registration and meet the requirements of the Red Cross; Army and Navy Nursing Bureaus.

Requirements for Admission. — Applicants must be of good sound health, between the ages of 19 and 35 years and must possess an eighth-grade certificate and have at least one year High School or its equivalent. A personal interview is preferred if possible. Those applying by letter should give a personal history and must enclose a letter of recommendation from their pastor. A vaccination certificate against small-pox, made within the last year, is requested. Applicants who have diseased tonsils must have them removed before entrance. They must give satisfactory evidence of possessing the ability to undertake the prescribed course of study and training in the school.

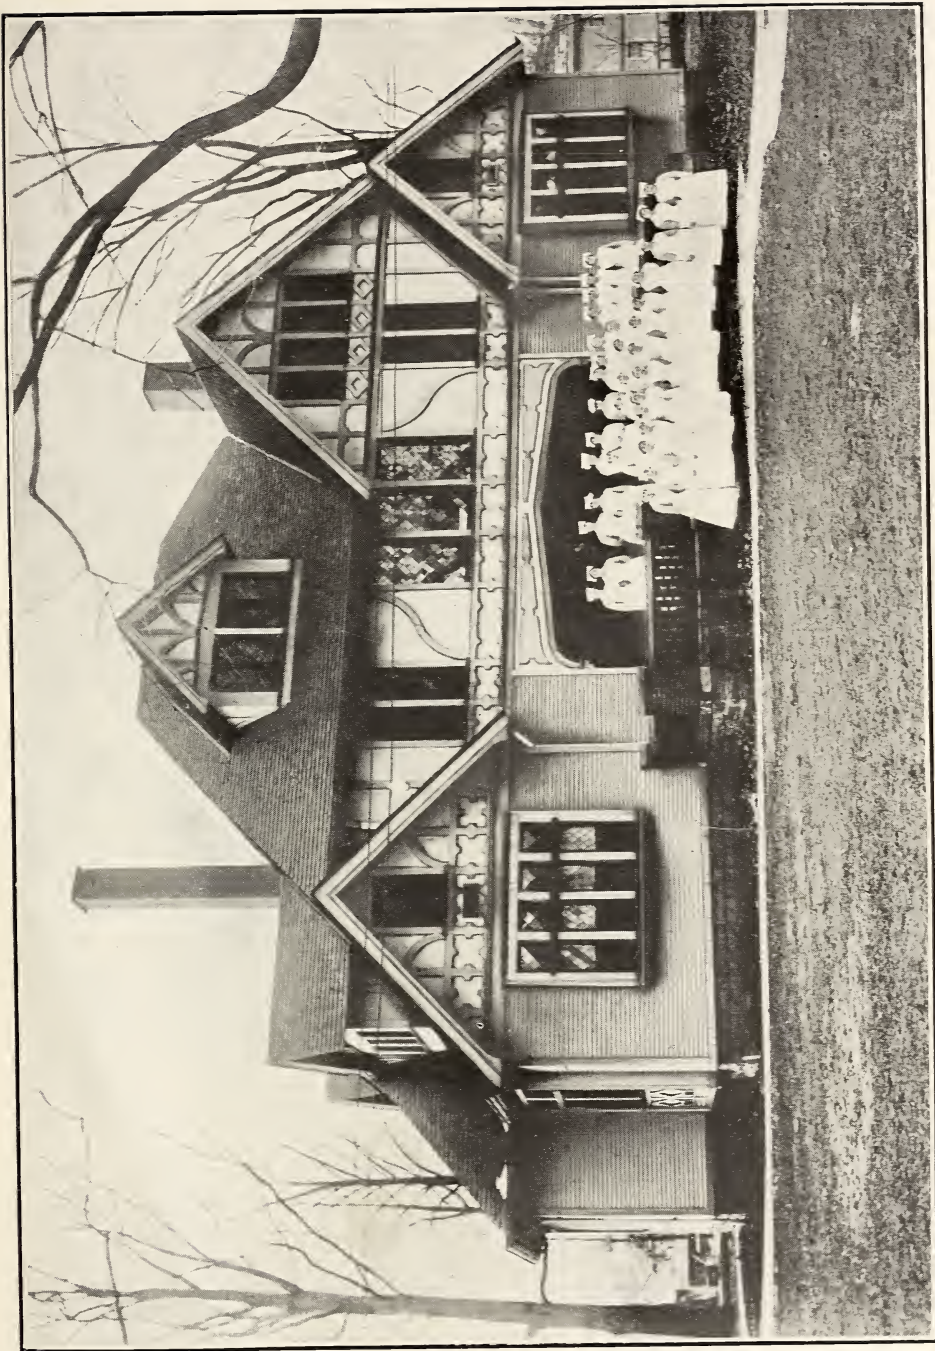

The classes are taken in March 1st or April 1st, and September 1st, and October 1st.

Probation Period. — The first three months are the probation period. During this period instruction is given in Hygiene and Sanitation, Domestic Science, Elementary Bacteriology, Solutions, Weights and Measures, Lessons on Ethics, Class Work and Demonstrations in Nursing Technique. At the end of the probation period, an examination is held. If the pupil successfully passes this examination and shows general fitness for nursing, good health and ability to keep up with the class instructions, she is received as a pupil. The school reserves the right to dismiss the pupil at any time if she proves unqualified.

Hours of Duty. — The time devoted to practical work is 9 hours. The pupil has one afternoon weekly and a half day each Sunday, with 3 hours off duty the remaining afternoons of the week. A vacation of two weeks each year is allowed.

Sickness. — All pupils are cared for gratuitously when ill and receive the services of the physicians of the hospital staff. Time lost through illness or for any other reason must be made up. Pupils will be excused from classes and lectures only on account of illness.

Tuition and Expenses. — No charges are made for tuition. Students receive board, lodging, and a reasonable amount of laundry work from the time of entrance. The pupils provide their own dresses during the period of probation, but after that time the hospital supplies the uniform and books for three years. In case a nurse leaves training before she graduates, the books and uniforms must be returned to Hospital.

Additional Information. — Probationers should bring 2 or 3 blue gingham dresses made in one piece and made $7\frac{1}{2}$ inches from the floor, tuck in the skirt to let down later for shrinking, and six white aprons same length as dress, gathered and a 3 inch wide band with buttons. Bib to cover front of dress to go with apron. Collar on dress made of same material and invertible. All clothes must be plainly marked. Each pupil should bring a pair of common, sensible, rubber-heeled shoes with round toe, also a watch with a second hand, a laundry bag, and a pair of scissors. The teeth, if out of order, should receive attention before the applicant enters the school. Probationers should be provided with sufficient means to return home if not accepted and must also be supplied with money for incidental expenses.

The Course of Instruction. — The instruction is given in weekly classes held from September to June.

Illustrative material, such as the skeleton, manikin, Chase hospital doll, microscope, slides, charts, and specimens, are freely used.

All communications concerning the Training School should be addressed: Principal of the Training School, Lutheran Hospital.

Upon the honorable and successful completion of her course, the student receives a diploma. This is recognized everywhere as an evidence of sound training. The aim of the authorities of the Training School is to give such a course to pupil nurses that they can successfully pass the examinations of the State Board of Registration. It is recommended that each nurse joins the Alumnae Association. Many benefits will accrue to her through such membership, and greater opportunity is afforded her to advance the interest of the nursing profession.

Pathological Laboratory.

THE X-RAY LABORATORY.

In keeping with the general equipment of the Hospital is the X-ray laboratory of Dr. C. C. Grandy. No doubt one of the greatest discoveries of recent years was made when Prof. Roentgen demonstrated the peculiar light which now bears his name. With the steady improvement in the apparatus for X-ray work, this laboratory at all times keeps pace, and no new advance in teaching or equipment goes by unnoticed.

THE PATHOLOGICAL LABORATORY.

The Pathological Laboratory in charge of Dr. Margaret S. Grant, is opposite the X-ray laboratory. Dr. Grant here instructs the nurse in the proper taking and preparation of pathological specimens, urinalysis, the examination of feces, sputum, blood, or stomach contents. The Wasserman test, the test for typhoid fever, making of vaccines, inoculation of guinea pigs, and other tests are made. A full and complete equipment is used in the work.

PHYSIO-HYDROTHERAPY DEPARTMENT.

Out of the travail of the Great War arose the science and art of the application of Electricity, Hydrotherapy, Massage, and Remedial Exercise to the cure of disease.

This was first recognized and made use of by the Germans, later by the French and English, and finally by our own Government under the head of Reconstruction.

A complete Physiotherapy department is in connection with the Hospital, where the student nurse receives training by lectures and practical work in the department. Here she works under a director, Dr. W. W. Carey, who superintends the work, and she is taught the value and how to apply the different modalities of the electrical current, the various forms of baths known as Hydrotherapy, Massage in a scientific manner, and Remedial exercise.

This training is found in but few schools and enhances the nurses' field of usefulness both to the physician and patient. This course is being added to the various training schools as well as to the profession, and the nurse having this knowledge commands a larger field of usefulness than one without.

THE HOSPITAL COTTAGE.

The Hospital Cottage is located just north-west of the Hospital and west of the Nurses' Home. The Electro-, Hydro-, and Physiotherapy department is located in this building.

THE TUBERCULOSIS TRAINING.

This School is affiliated with the Irene Byron Tuberculosis Sanitarium, located north of the city, where the nurse gets two months practical and theoretical instruction in tuberculosis. The course is selective and the nurse has the privilege to take this training in her third year. It seems essential that a nurse should get a thorough instruction in this disease which is most prevalent. This course is added to various Nursing Schools and the nurse who volunteers to take this training demands a greater field of usefulness than one without.
